GOVERNMENT PLANS TO PLACE MILITARY PATROL ON BORDERS

Uniformed Force Of 5,000 Men Will Aid Coast Guard

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Prohibition's second decade started today with the government preparing to place a military arm of the United States in the front-line trenches of enforcement.

The treasury was preparing to organize a little sister to the Marine Corps to guard the borders against smugglers, for that is substantially what the militarized border patrol will become, operating as it will, provided congress passes the necessary legislation, as the land force of the coast guard.

This military unit will bear the same relation to the coast guard as does the famous fighting machine to the navy.

The prohibition business was a bigger job than the first commissioner, John T. Kramer, or anybody else thought on January 17, 1920. On that day the government started after the bootleggers with 1,000 men, hopeful of co-operation from all the states, counties and cities.

On that day Commissioner Kramer issued a statement declaring that "we plan quick and drastic measures to make the law effective."

An official at the treasury said that since the border patrol, deployed from Maine to Washington and from the Gulf to the Pacific, will be a long-unit, although under regulation of the sea-going coast guard, it must be of some different organization.

The guard will be uniformed, out of a different type than that of the coast guard.

The size of the patrol has been determined. At present there is a force of 2,500 men in the coast guard, customs and immigration patrol to form the nucleus of the new unit. It was thought 5,000 men would be required for the entire 3,000 miles of border.

The number of new ports of entry to augment the 100 now in existence, has not been determined. A survey is in progress. The prohibition of the proposed law making it illegal to cross the border except at ports of entry will necessitate a material increase in the ports to accommodate the traffic.

The first plan called for 500 ports but it may be possible to reduce this number.

Representatives of the public health and agricultural department patrols will be found at each port. The agricultural patrol is now guarding the Mexican and Canadian borders to prevent import of products infected with the Mediterranean fruit fly, and the orange worm patrol along the Mexican border.

DEBATE GUILT OF GROCERYMAN

Sale Of Sugar And Yeast Involved

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17.—The case of John Papp, Akron grocer, on liquor charges, was to be continued before United States Commissioner Martin J. Monahan yesterday following an interruption yesterday until it could be determined whether a grocer selling large orders of sugar and yeast to customers who use them to manufacture liquor can be held for violation of the liquor law.

Papp was arrested along with Ben Johnson and Frank Baker recently by federal agents who were attracted to a still by the smell of whiskey mash. Papp, according to his counsel, was "just a poor deliverer who happened to be delivering sugar and yeast at the time and was ignorant that they were to be used in the manufacture of liquor."

Assistant U. S. Attorney Marc Wilpaw, however, maintained that the amounts of sugar and yeast made it impossible for any intelligent man not to know what they were to be used for.

Commissioner Monahan was undecided about the matter and continued the case.

DEMOCRATS OUST COUNTY CHAIRMAN

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17.—Fred J. Heer, former chairman of the Franklin County Democratic executive committee, was again installed, as chairman of the committee today, following the dismissal of Nathan A. McCoy, who was ousted as chairman late yesterday.

McCoy was elected to succeed Heer as head of the committee in 1928.

He was ousted at a special meeting of the body yesterday, following charges that McCoy had lost public confidence through recent public statements, and that his loss of control of the executive committee greatly impaired his

LEVEES BREAK WHEN MISSISSIPPI GOES ON FLOOD RAMPAGE

Vast Territory Flooded As Streams Leave Banks.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 17.—Sweeping southward to the accompaniment of freezing temperatures, swirling torrents of flood waters from the Mississippi tributaries claimed a vast new territory today.

A major break in the Big Lake, Ark., levee, flooded more than 200,000 acres of rich farm land. The break, small at first, soon widened to a 350-foot gap, and workmen abandoned an attempt to save the dyke.

The break was not unexpected. The lake, located in Mississippi County, Ark., had been a critical point for days, and after the big break, the pressure in the lake diminished considerably, decreasing the danger of more serious collapses.

The engineers said more than 20,000 cubic feet of water swept through the crevasse each second. Concern was centered today on the White River between Georgetown and Davalls Bluff, Ark., where a number of breaks were believed to be imminent. Crews which have been working around the lock to reinforce the White River levees were augmented today by hundreds of laborers.

Crews started an attempt to raise the Jackson Bayou levee on the White River two more feet, as the structure can stand only thirty feet of water, engineers said. Thirty-two feet of water was forecast.

FEAR ANOTHER LONARDO SLAIN

Believe Last Of Brothers Slain

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17.—Fear that Dominic Lonardo, reputed wealthy produce merchant, has gone the way of his three brothers, all of whom were slain in Cleveland's corn sugar war, was felt here today by relatives of the Lonardos upon receipt of word that Dominic mysteriously disappeared from his home in San Francisco more than a month ago and has not been seen since.

According to word received here, Lonardo, the last of the four Lonardo brothers, left his home December 14 carrying considerable money. He never returned and it was feared he may have been "taken for a ride."

Lonardo's three brothers, John, Joe, and Frank, were all shot down in Cleveland's corn sugar war.

Dominic was suspected here as a member of the payroll gang which murdered Wilfred C. Sly and George Fanner in 1930. He produced testimony, however, showing he was in California at the time.

Thayer was arrested along with Ben Johnson and Frank Baker recently by federal agents who were attracted to a still by the smell of whiskey mash. Papp, according to his counsel, was "just a poor deliverer who happened to be delivering sugar and yeast at the time and was ignorant that they were to be used in the manufacture of liquor."

Assistant U. S. Attorney Marc Wilpaw, however, maintained that the amounts of sugar and yeast made it impossible for any intelligent man not to know what they were to be used for.

Commissioner Monahan was undecided about the matter and continued the case.

THAYER TO TESTIFY IN OWN DEFENSE

CANTON, O., Jan. 17.—Albert L. Thayer, New Castle, Pa., architect, who is on trial here charged with having solicited a $7,500 bribe in connection with the construction of the new million-dollar Molly Stark tuberculosis sanitarium, was expected to take the stand in his own defense today.

Present indications are that the case will not go to the jury of six men and six women, before whom it is being tried, until Monday or Tuesday of next week.

George F. S. Melbourne, wealthy general contractor for the hospital, from whom Thayer is alleged to have solicited the bribe in connection with "juggling" linoleum specifications in the contract, testified yesterday. Thayer demanded $7,500 from him and actually received $6,500 cash in four installments, Melbourne declared.

STATE DEPARTMENT PROBING DISEASE

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17.—The state department of health had today issued a bulletin requesting all local Ohio health bureaus to notify the department of any case that was thought to be psittacosis or "parrot fever."

This request comes closely in the wake of numerous deaths through out the country from the dread

HOPKINS PREPARED TO ANSWER CHARGES MADE BY OPPONENTS

Deposed Manager To Give Real Reasons For Removal

CLEVELAND, Jan. 17.—Pouring over the charges prepared by city council, presumably as the ones on which they based their ouster action against him, William R. Hopkins, Cleveland's suspended city manager, today promised that he will lift the lid at his hearing Tuesday and bring out the real reasons for his dismissal by the Republican majority of council.

A councilmanic committee of five presented its bill of complaint to city council yesterday—four days after they voted to oust him from office without reconsideration, although the charges at the time were not presented, or, insofar as is known, even definitely decided upon. Council ratified the charges and set next Tuesday as the date for Hopkins' hearing.

"The charges will be completely and conclusively answered," Hopkins declared today.

The bill of complaint charges Hopkins with "negligence, an incapacity for harmonious co-operation, usurpation of authority and un-Americanism."

The latter charge specified that Hopkins insulted a group of citizens by saying his ancestors were Republicans while State Senator George A. Bender's ancestors were still roaming the plains of Hungary.

Hopkins with "negligence, an incapacity for harmonious co-operation, usurpation of authority and un-Americanism."

REPORT RIOTING

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Severe fighting has broken in the rebel garrison of the Cantonese navy on Hoihow Island, China, according to reports from Hong Kong today.

The British sloop Magnolia is enroute to the scene to protect foreigners.

SHIP BELIEVED LOST ARRIVES SAFELY IN SCOTTISH HARBOR

ST. JOHN'S NEWFOUNDLAND, Jan. 17.—Inhabitants of St. John's rejoiced today over receipt of news that the three-masted sailing vessel Neptune, missing for six weeks, had drifted across the Atlantic at the mercy of wind and wave to a safe landing at Tobermory, Scotland.

News of the almost unbelievable argosy was received in a terse message from Tobermory which disclosed that the vessel and its complement of thirteen men and one woman had arrived safely at the Scottish port.

The suffering those fourteen helpless persons must have endured can only be conjectured. The Neptune, one of a fleet of eleven sailing vessels that put to sea from this port in the face of a roaring gale on November 29, had long been given up for lost.

The little fleet was scattered soon after it had reached open water. Six of the ships were abandoned with the loss of one life. Four of them reached port, and as days passed the conviction grew that the Neptune had foundered.

On December 13 the S. S. Cedric had reported that a bark resembling the 200-ton Neptune was sighted during the night, but ensuing days brought no further word. Fortune, however, favored the frail craft, and after six weeks of buffeting, wind and wave drove her across the dangerous North Atlantic to Haven.

The issue is to be placed before the nation's high tribunal in arguments in the appeal of the Federal Radio Commission to sustain its action in ordering "WGY" broadcast at Schenectady, N. Y., to share time with "KGO" station at Oakland, Calif.

The General Electric Company, raising the question of ownership of the ether, contends in a brief lodged with the court that if there is any ownership of the air it rests in the states.

The high court may not be called upon to decide the vital question, it appeared, although it is raised squarely by the electric company.

Apart from this question, the General Electric Company contended that the radio commission's allocation order affecting "WJY" was subject to review by lower courts under the radio act.

The radio commission regards the case as the most important thus far arising on the question of governmental regulation. If the electric company wins, according to commission lawyers, the entire reallocation order of 1928 may be revoked. Radio broadcasting, they assert would then revert to the chaotic condition which caused demands for the new distribution of licenses and wave lengths.

REPORT TWO DEATHS AS MERCURY FALLS; MORE COLD COMING

Smallpox Adds To Suffering Among Flood Victims

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Sub-zero temperatures which numbed the middle and north-west last night continued today with even colder weather predicted before the frigid wave is exhausted.

Rolling out of the northwest, the cold settled across the country from the Rocky Mountains eastward to the Atlantic seaboard. Frigid temperatures prevailed as far south as Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

In the Great Lakes region last night the mercury continued its glide downward with five below zero predicted for today.

Iowa, Missouri, and Kansas are experiencing below zero weather, which is unusual for Kansas. Norton, Kas., reported a temperature of fifteen below last night. Zero temperatures were common throughout northern Oklahoma.

Montana was in the grip of a 35-below zero snap which apparently was the lowest in the United States.

Two deaths were added to the storm's toll when the bodies of Mabel Dennis, 28, and Carl Miller, 35, were found in a storm-bound automobile near Pioche, Nevada.

VINCENNES, Ind., Jan. 17.—Disease and intense suffering due to the cold stalked through the flood-stricken Vincennes area today.

The Red Cross and the state board of health have taken charge of relief work among the hundreds of families made homeless when the Wabash River left its banks and inundated thousands of acres, including a section of Vincennes proper.

An increase of forty-five cases of smallpox within the last twenty-four hours prompted a conference of city and state authorities in an attempt to combat the disease problem.

Wholesale vaccinations were ordered for today.

Major General D. E. Nolan at Washington, it is reported, has directed that troops be made ready to be sent into the area if necessary with supplies of food, clothing and bedding equipment for the unsheltered.

Although the zero temperature has lessened the river's rise, the Wabash continued to swell slowly.

The town of Shoals, completely surrounded by water, is now further handicapped by ice.

AUTOISTS MAROONED IN ARIZONA SNOW

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 17.—A rescue party from Flagstaff, Ariz., expects to reach a contingent of seventeen motorists who are reported to have been marooned by the snow for four days in a small house fifteen miles north of Flagstaff.

J. W. Hildred of Phoenix, a member of the stranded party sent first word of the desperate situation here when he tapped in on a telephone line. Snow drifts fourteen feet high were reported in the region.

WOMAN BANDIT BEING SOUGHT

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17.—Columbus police today began an intensive search for a lone woman bandit who late yesterday held up and robbed a Kroger grocery store here.

Police believe it was the second recent hold-up for the female bandit. Another Kroger store was held up and robbed here two days ago. Descriptions which were given to police by both store managers, coincide, which led police to believe that the same hooded and haired bandit "pulled" both jobs.

She forced the manager and a clerk to lie on the floor while she robbed the cash drawer of between $20 and $25. She escaped in a taxicab, the driver of which she threatened with a revolver.

"WHO OWNS THE AIR?" WILL BE ANSWERED

FIRST PHOTO OF GUNWOMAN AND COMPANIONS

"SQUARE DEAL" FOR WOUNDED SOLDIERS SOUGHT IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Declaring that men wounded in actual battles of the World War are being "gold bricked" in the distribution of $500,000,000 soldiers' benefits every year, Representative Royal Johnson (R) of South Dakota, chairman of the house veterans' committee, today opened a campaign to give them "a square deal."

Johnson's contention was backed by Major General Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, who testified congress has given groups of soldiers advantages over others in building up the present system of aid for disabled veterans.

Representative Fitzgerald (R) of Ohio, also subscribed to the declaration, announcing he favored legislation adding 10 per cent to the disability compensation of soldiers wounded in battle.

Under measures now before the committee, Johnson asserted, a veteran who lost a leg in battle may find himself, drawing $200 a month from the government while a stevedore who suffered an ailment when he entered the service would get $235 a month.

"I've been impressed we are not giving the battle casualty proper treatment under the law," said Johnson. "He is getting 'gold-bricked.' There is a great attempt being made to bring everyone else, under the benefits of the law who can show any service connection or any ailment."

"I'm trying to eliminate discrimination and call the attention of the country to the fact that it exists."

General Hines informed the committee that one out of four soldiers and sailors in the World War has asked compensation and one out of every eight is now getting it.

"I have felt that those who have battle disabilities have not got enough in comparison to others who have secured benefits under the presumptive clause," said General Hines. "The man who has tuberculosis may get more than the man suffering from a gun shot wound."

General Hines also advised a change in the system of awarding compensation on the basis of pre-war earnings. A bookkeeper may get a 29 per cent disability and a structural iron worker an 89 per cent disability for the same injury, he said.

"I feel we are rapidly approaching the time when congress should adopt a policy regarding veterans of all wars to bring about uniformity in allowances," said General Hines. "The veterans of the Spanish war could point to apparent inequalities in favor of some World War veterans, and some veterans of the late war could point to apparent inequalities in favor of the Spanish war veteran."

General Hines insisted those now on the rolls of the veterans bureau deserve the compensation they are receiving.

The committee has before it a bill by Rep. Rankin (D) of Mississippi which would give compensation to every veteran who can prove he is suffering from a disability which existed while he was in service, and which was aggravated by service.

IMPOSING BODY OF OFFICIALS GREET PARLEY DELEGATES

Re e c h Plymouth At Dawn; Stimson Remains Silent

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The American delegation to the five-power naval arms conference arrived here from Plymouth at 2:10 p. m. today (9:10 a. m. E. S. T.) and received a rousing welcome from an imposing throng of statesmen and officials.

When the special train carrying Secretary of State Stimson, the other delegates and two American ambassadors who had gone to Plymouth to greet them, General Charles Gates Daves and Hugh Gibson, pulled into the Paddington Station, they were met by Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, Premier MacDonald's private secretary, Admiral Madden and Malcolm MacDonald, all of whom represented the British premier.

The imposing welcoming delegation had been waiting at the station forty-five minutes for the arrival of the train.

Outside of the gates of the station a huge throng awaited to accord the American delegation a tremendous popular ovation.

Secretary Stimson was the first to leave the train. He was warmly greeted by Foreign Minister Henderson.

Ambassador Dawes, taking the role of master of ceremonies, introduced the various delegates and other members of the official American party to the British foreign minister and the others of the welcoming committee.

Outside the station a number of automobiles awaited the American delegation.

After chatting briefly, the visiting delegates accompanied by the welcoming party stepped into the waiting vehicles and were whizzed away to the Ritz Hotel.

As the delegates appeared outside the station the waiting throng let out a rousing roar of welcome which the American delegates gratefully acknowledged.

The fifteen minute ride through the streets of London to the Hotel was marked by similar ovations all along the route.

At the hotel, the delegates immediately went up to the suites assigned them to rest from the long train ride from Plymouth.

It is understood that Secretary Stimson will hold his first conference with Premier MacDonald late this afternoon.

Before that, however, it is expected the entire American delegation of seven will hold its first conference at the hotel to discuss Premier MacDonald's exposition of views to the press on Wednesday.

Although all seven American delegates were together on the train coming up from Plymouth, their conversation was purely of a social nature, it is believed.

...bucking a terrific gale that reached eighty miles an hour proportions during the latter stages of the journey, had anchored in the outer harbor at Plymouth at 6 a. m. (1 a. m. Eastern Standard Time). Soon after the vessel dropped anchor, a tender arrived from Plymouth and took the entire delegation, including advisers, technicians, secretaries and stenographers, aboard. The tender arrived at the dock at 3:15. General Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, and Hugh Gibson, ambassador to Switzerland, were on hand to welcome Secretary Stimson and his aides. The sun was just breaking through the English haze when the little tender, bearing its imposing group of delegates, pulled into the wharf.

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 17.—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, chief of the American delegation to the forthcoming five-power naval disarmament parley, declined to make any official statement regarding the suggestion of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald that battleships be eliminated entirely from the fleets of the world, when he arrived here today aboard the United States liner George Washington. While it is understood that members of the American delegation do not hold with Premier MacDonald that battleships should be abolished, Secretary Stimson refrained from any definite statement pending his preliminary conversations with the British prime minister. It is not known whether the American delegates will offer any definite opposition to discussion of the battleship problem at the conference, but it was reported that the decisive statement of Premier MacDonald on this issue caused considerable surprise among the delegation. Secretary Stimson is anxious to meet with the British prime minister at the earliest opportunity. Whether the latter's battleship suggestion will be discussed immediately is an open question.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—When the members of the United States delegation to the five-power naval conference arrived here today they found luxurious headquarters awaiting them. Two and one-half floors of the famous Ritz Hotel, overlooking Green Park, had been reserved for them for the length of their stay in the British capital. Included in the accommodations were numerous suites containing one or more bedrooms, private sitting rooms, and bathrooms. Fifty of those in the official party took up their residence at the Ritz immediately. Many of the sitting rooms of the hotel had been turned into offices for secretaries and stenographers so that the delegation's work could proceed without delay. From the windows of some of the rooms, the delegates were able to look out over Green Park to Buckingham Palace and the palace gardens. The delegates are only five minutes walk from the St. James Palace, where the conference is to be held. The majority of the rooms used by the delegates were completely renovated by the management before their arrival. The fifth and sixth floors of the building were chosen in order that the delegates might have quiet and freedom from interruption. The delegates will have little or Personality Building Explained To B. P. W.

MR. Frank D. Slutz, Dayton, wife of the prominent educator and lecturer, was the guest of honor and delivered an interesting address at the regular monthly meeting of the Xenia Business and Professional Women's Club at 8 P. M. of P. Hall, Thursday evening. "Personality" was the subject of Mrs. Slutz's address.

"Building personality," said Mrs. Slutz, "is the putting together of the powers of body and mind to produce a certain extent to inheritance of powers of body and mind can be cultivated to produce personalities of great winsomeness.

Mrs. Slutz quoted from a book of psychology by Dr. Charters, eminent educator, and gave several practical suggestions for the development of your own personality.

"Be able to diagnose yourself and find your weaknesses and your powers. The help of real friends is precious enough to tell you the greatest help in this respect, is a desire for improvement. Let us desire and strive for it. Learn to develop a definite line of action. Select ideas and put them into practice. Merely daydreaming will not develop personality. It is only the daily practice of the improvement sought will have results. Try to develop courtesy in your personality every day to make those about you happy," are some of the points Mrs. Slutz brought out.

Mrs. Slutz pointed out eight outstanding tests of the ideal personality: intellectual alertness; sense of humor; rich appreciation of beauty; love for humanity; a positive purpose in life; detachment from the bondage of material things and the dedication of the mind to some worthy cause. In speaking of the bondage of material things of which so many personalities are submerged Mrs. Slutz said, "not one thing we can buy or material things can really change us as is within us. Personality is not depend on the things that surround us. Unselfishness and giving for others will do more than anything else to develop personality."

Preceding Mrs. Slutz's address, Edna Bloom gave a short talk "Thrift Week" urging the members to consider the outstanding as of the thrift week plan and touching the matters of insurance, investments, budgeting, paying bills promptly and especially the habit of regular saving in order to have a competence for old age. The program was preceded by six o'clock dinner served by the Xenia Sisters. There were eighteen present. The tables were prettily decorated with red and white flowers and red crepe being used to carry out the scheme. Clever red crepe

SIELE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FRUIT BEARING—Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye except ye abide in me.—John 15:3, 4.

MEN ARE INTERESTED

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who hasn't been talking very much of late, comes through with a notice to mere men that he is due for a little surprise from the woman voter. "Men have been measuring the feminine voting population by their own yard stick," says Carrie. "They think they know just how the women will cast their ballots at every election. Some day their complacent calculations will be completely upset. Women are just getting into their stride, and realizing what they want. Before long their vote will show it."

From the tone of her remarks we fear that Mrs. Catt is still a victim of acute sex antagonism, which is a pity, because if she could get away from the idea that men are trying to keep women down in the political field, she might be of considerable use to the world. As a matter of fact, what the lady advances as a warning, not to say a gloating threat, is just what the more thoughtful and intelligent men of the country are hoping for. Now that women have the ballot, their fathers, husbands and brothers are waiting and watching for the day when the members of the sex will rise to a real understanding of their duties and responsibilities as citizens, will study public issues, examine into the qualifications and characters of candidates for office, and will make an intelligent and determined effort to see that the laws, policies and public service of the nation are improved. There are some things women will be able to do better than men are doing them if they set their minds to the job, just as there are some things men always will be able to do better than women can.

AN INCIDENT

The investigation of William B. Shearer by Senator Caraway's snoop committee appears to have landed the investigators in another snare. The "amazing secret British document," which Shearer still claims to believe was part of a scheme by which Great Britain hoped to subvert the liberties won by our ancestors when they chased the red-coats out, was written by a doctor in New York, as an antidote to pro-British propaganda alleged to have been spread in this country by Lord Northcliffe. A number of American citizens are said to have known the truth about this hoax. Canadian papers have published it as a joke.

A committee of glib senators allowed Shearer to put this "document" over on it as something secret, amazing and diabolical in intent. Government time and taxpayers' money were wasted in trusting a quixotic lance through a transparency. The only valuable revelation the committee has made in the Shearer case is that it is dangerous to joke with men whose lack of a sense of humor is aggravated by an ardent "patriotism."

After reading of the attention paid in Europe to the recent royal wedding in Rome, we are convinced that even under democratic skins there's a vein of purple.

Comparing the casualty lists, it becomes apparent that perilous exploration really is safer than staying at home and meeting traffic and the gunmen.

Congressmen who cheer references to law enforcement would have more occasions for cheering if they gave the country less law to enforce.

Former Governor Edwards came to town and said the things everybody expected he would say, so nobody was disappointed.

A good many so-called comic wheezes sound as though they were suffering from badly perforated bellows.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

SUPERSTITION

A German sued the director of a museum because of injuries received while moving a shrine that heathen gods were supposed to watch over. The workman believed a curse had been put upon him by some supernatural power. The judge wisely ruled that the man had been injured as a result of his own carelessness. Superstition was thrown out of court.

We laugh at that sort of thing but many of us are in the class of the German workman. We attribute our misfortunes and our failures to every reason but ourselves. We are usually the real reason—our carelessness, our laziness, our fuzzy, confused thinking, our failure to look the facts in the face.

ODD JOBS

Washington is not altogether a city of law makers and adding machine clerks. There is romance, mystery, adventure and fascination in even government offices. Uncle Sam is engaged in a variety of enterprises that few people ever hear about. One learns that in the agricultural department there is a man experimenting day after day in an effort to give golfers better putting greens. Another man is figuring what the tariff ought to be on gold fish. Another is studying sea weed and still another is measuring the heads of congressmen to see if he can arrive scientifically at legislative ability. The government is up to all sorts of interesting things, some of them important.

HOLDING HISTORY

More than 700 years after King John was forced to come across at Runnymede and give his English subjects some real rights, liberties, and privileges—the Magna Charta—Lady Fairhaven, American woman by birth, has bought the ground where King John performed. She does a splendid service. If only more places of historic significance might be preserved the cause of education would be greatly advanced. We should hold history before the eyes of the people—especially young people—and there is no better way to do it than by the preservation of shrines.

TITLES

There are 75 Canadians who wear noble titles. They are barons and countesses or knights of this and that. Canada no longer bestows titles, but the dominion still produces the kind of men who deserve honor. Deserving honor, they win it. They win it in the hearts of their countrymen. A title is only the outward sign of what is supposed to be inward grace. And there is much inward grace without title.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—Portland Hoffa of "The Little Show" was born to a father who is a humorist. She was called "Portland" because the family happened to be living at the time in Portland, Me. The Hoffas move about a great deal. When another daughter was born to it was at Lebanon, Pa.; and the father, who, it seems, has his own way in that family, named the second girl Lebanon. She is also on the stage. Then came a boy. The old man, who names the boys as well as the girls, christened the kid Last One. But another lady die was delivered by a grinning stork. Father Hoffa, however, was equal to the occasion. He called the kid Period and threw stones at the stork.

Portland and Lebanon say that if they marry and have children they'll name them Mary and John and Kitt and Jimmy as an act of expiation. But strange to relate both Last One and Period are exceedingly proud of their names.

POPULARIZES BIBLE
Isrov Morr, who does publicity for the Radio Corporation of America, the soap people, the sugar people, the Restaurant Men's Association, the fruit growers and some 30 or 40 others, has just undertaken a campaign to "popularize the Bible."
If Jarvis hands you a letter in the morning just as you are about to dive into the prunes and you tear it open and a verse from Deuteronomy drops out, you'll know Isrov has you on his "sucker list."

BUYING A HAT
John Cavanagh has opened a trick hat shop on Park avenue. He has no hats on display but you are surrounded by three lid experts to whom you describe the sort of "cootie cage" that you think would strike you pink. Then one of the trio—Hans Link—stands off and squints at your face and if you want a wide-brimmed chapeau and your face requires a narrow brim he tells you in diplomatic language just how cootie-eyed you are. Finally, the three of them get you to agree on the plans and specifications of

BRINGING HOME THE REPORT CARD

WASHINGTON.—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon can appear more serenely indifferent to the progress of aught untoward, with a blood-thirsty war party at the congressional end of Pennsylvania avenue clamoring for his official scalp, than any other man in public life.

Persistently denounced by political critics, the average individual in a high government post betrays perturbation or resentment by trying to explain or defend himself, or mayhap by some defiant utterance.

Secretary Mellon simply gives no indication whatever of even knowing that a voice is being raised against him, though the Capitol dome may be reverberating with it.

Mr. Mellon does not look or behave like a thick-skinned person. On the contrary, he seems sensitive. My impression is that he would feel a jab keenly, from anyone whose good opinion he valued. I imagine he could be driven to resign quite easily, if he considered himself justly found fault with.

However, I judge he feels that the rank and file of congressmen, as well as about 99 and a fraction per cent of ordinary folk, have not the slightest idea what they are talking about. When they do talk and lower and orate he evidently considers that it does not amount to anything.

It may or it may not annoy him. If it does, presumably it annoys him as one might be annoyed by a swarm of gnats—the kind of irritation it would be childish to give way to and make a big fuss over.

Mr. Mellon is under the congressional prohibitionists' fire just at present—though no one would be aware of the fact, from any attention he is paying to it.

The dries doubtless are right in their judgment that he never has been in sympathy with the Eighteenth amendment or the Volstead law in principle, but it strikes me that they are mistaken in believing that that has hampered his department's enforcement efforts.

On the contrary, I always have thought that the coast guard, which is a treasury adjunct, is the one agency that really has made something of an effective enforcement effort since it was equipped to take an active hand in combating rum smuggling.

The treasury's dry personnel ashore naturally have been lower grade men than the guardmen from the beginning. That was to have been expected. The guard started as a picked, well-trained corps. As is generally recognized, every circumstance militated

VAN RAALTE VS. KELLY
Frank V. Wiltach is out with his 1929 set of Similes. Some few are good. Most of them are forced. Wading through the list is like eating a cold fried egg that's been left standing overnight on the kitchen window sill.
He quotes one from J. L. Kelly: "Bright as the seat of a Scotchman's trousers."
I like my ancient line better: "Bright as the seat of The Pastor's pants."

SUGGESTIONS

Important Trifles
Shoulder straps for brassiers and corselettes of narrow elastic are not only more comfortable, but keep the garment more easily in place.

It is a difficult task to teach small children to eat daintily at the table. But it will be much more pleasant for all concerned if child-sized dishes and spoons and forks are used, with attractive bibs and tray cloths.

The old-fashioned carpet sweeper is not passed by any means. It is used more than ever. To take up the crumbs after the meal, to remove lint from the bedroom rug, etc., in between the weekly cleaning days, it keeps floors bright and tidy.

Colored garments, even though they are fast colors, should be washed quickly in cool water, and with a mild soap, then hung up to dry immediately. If there is the least danger of streaking, the material should be rolled in a towel or muslin to dry, and ironed while damp with a warm iron.

An excellent place to keep rubbers and galoshes is to have one of the stair steps made into a box. The top of the step may be hinged with a box underneath.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

A FIRST-CLASS ACROBAT

SNAP-BEETLE shivered and shook and his claws trembled—just as if he were cold, thought Peter. What a shame the poor fellow should be so frightened!

"I'm sorry I startled you, sir," said the boy, aloud. "You've nothing to fear from me. To tell you the truth I was going to help you back on your feet when Biffer told me no help—to say you didn't need any help. He was right. You didn't! My, I never met such a spry chap as you are!"

Snap-Beetle puffed out his thin chest and his look of fright turned to a pleasure grin. Biffer ran up to his cousin.

"If you couldn't leap so far we'd not tumble you over on your back just to see you do it, Snapper!"

Shrilled the gay young Gun-Beetle. "Come now, the joke's on you, but cleverly than any other beetle in the tribe could do, the joke is on us, so what do you care? Come on, now, cousin, out with the truth. You're not mad at me and the Tumble-Bugs, now are you?"

"I was mad as hops!" declared Snap-Beetle, chuckling a little. "But I'm not mad now. In fact, I'm laughing at you. Maybe you don't know it, and I never thought of it before, but your teasing is good for what ails me. I'm a lazy chap and like to amble along, doing not much of anything. When you flop me on my back and I have to 'snap out of it' I get exercise I need to keep me in good condition. I don't use my spring much at any other time and I guess I ought to!"

His "spring." What was Snap-Beetle talking about. To find out all Peter had to do was to listen. Once started, the acrobat of the Beetle tribe was willing to tell all he knew—a habit with most of the little citizens of the meadow, as Peter had found out. It almost seemed as though what the insects lacked in size they made up in family pride

Cream of Corn Soup—One can of corn. Melt one heaping tablespoon butter in a saucepan, add one level tablespoon flour, mix smooth, and gradually add one pint or three cups of milk. When hot and smooth add corn, season with salt and pepper, and serve with-crackers. Serves four.

This is a luncheon menu. If it is served to children I would omit most or all of the salad dressing. It is a good idea to teach the family to like their salads with nothing but lemon juice on them.

Questions and Answers

C. has a duodenal ulcer. She wants the following questions answered:

1. "Is baking soda harmful?"

Ans. Sodas and other alkalis are frequently given for medication in the beginning treatment of ulcers, in connection with the ulcer diet (meals every two or three hours of milk or milk and cream, egg mixtures, or whatever the doctor in charge has had success with), and taken once in a while after the cure, it is probably not harmful. But if you are having any symptoms, you should go back to your doctor and see if you shouldn't go back on the original curative diet.

2. "Do fried eggs, corn, whole wheat bread and eggs aggravate the condition?"

Ans. One who has had an ulcer always has to be more or less careful of certain foods. If you find they do aggravate, it is best to not use them.

3. "Do ulcers affect the eyes?"

Ans. I don't find eye complications listed as a result of ulcer, but it is possible for any prolonged under-par condition to also include the eyes.

4. "Is smoking hard on ulcer?"

Ans. YES, decidedly so. In fact the gastric disturbance caused by smoking can closely simulate ulcer. It apparently increases the hyper-acid condition.

5. "Wouldn't a small amount of good whisky help strengthen my stomach?"

Ans. NO, decidedly not. Alcohols and tobacco are to be strictly avoided. They markedly irritate chronic ulcerous conditions.

6. "Should one eat between meals?"

Ans. Yes, frequent and smaller meals are advised. Something should be eaten every three hours. It is advisable to have a few crackers or a glass of milk or half milk and cream, at this time, between meals. This food engages any free acid which has been formed, which will irritate the gum. It is a good idea to have some food at the bedside to take if waking during the night.

7. "Should no acid fruits be eaten?"
Ans. The citrus fruits, and matoes, for instance, are a tasting, but they leave an ash in the body. However, conditions of irritated stomach and intestines they cause some irritation before they are digested and so may have to be avoided a while. But if fruits and vegetables are avoided too long, vitamin C (the anti-scurvy vitamin) may be deficient, and a state last, bordering on scurvy may be brought on. This, of course, is to the complications of the original disease. For a while it is best to get the vitamin C from the bland fruits, especially bananas, melons and mild apricots, thoroughly masticated. But pomegranates are giving the citrus fruits, much sooner than I used to.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

There are many bits of wisdom to be gleaned from a letter just received, which was written in answer to the one recently printed in this column, signed "Mary Lou."

Mary Lou had four healthy children and a husband who did not care for them and was, she said, "a failure in everything." A man she described as honest and a great pal of the children was anxious to marry her and care for the children if she would divorce her husband and marry him.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: The first thing I don't understand is, how these wives who have been stung so badly can put their faith so strongly in another man. Mary Lou had better look before she leaps, don't you think so? If the children's father does not love them as he should, it's one chance in a hundred that a stepfather would love and care for children of another man."

"I married a divorced man. The wife, of course, was as true to blame, but I have found our differently. I am the cause of all our trouble now, so he says. He tells me I nag him, which is true, but he gives me plenty of cause. I tell him we are both alike. That is why we can't agree, and that no one ever quarreled alone. It takes two for that."

"He drank before we were married but promised to quit, but never has. That's my fault for not having that settled before hand, but I trusted him. So that's that."

"So, Mary Lou, try to stick it out a little longer until the children are grown a little larger, then you can work and they can, too, and you will all have a happy home. I can't see how women can take on more trouble when they have plenty by getting mixed up with other men. It's bad business."

"I have seen many such cases, but all have the same ending. I have been married 22 years and have seen lots of trouble."

"MAY."

Thank you for your letter. You have had a lot of experience and your advice may be helpful to some of my correspondents. Cause you are broad-minded—see both sides of the picture.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a group of girls who are going to organize a club. We have a list of names for it from which we could select one. Please send them as soon as possible."

"CURLY."
Peppy Pals, Friendship of Teddy Bears, Kit Kat, Trixie Blue Birds, Chatterers, Chit Chit or any of the Greek letters if are suitable for the kind of club you wish to form.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a girl still in my teens. I go to parties and dances and drink and smoke, for the rest of my girl friends do, too. We have a swell time, or, at least, we think we have a swell time."

"I go with the crowd but I never go with the crowd. I am the only one who I love, and if I ever win him back I would quit. I never drink or smoke when I went with him. I see him quite often. He is going with a girl now, but I says he doesn't care anything about her."

"If I could only get him back again I would try and do right. Give me some advice, Virginia, how to win him back. I can't on this way. If I can't get him back I don't care what becomes of me."

"BROKEN HEARTED."
Don't you suppose if you are going with this crowd and so doing as they do, that the friend will be much more likely to come back to you? You say he doesn't care for this other girl. Maybe the reason he is with her and doesn't come back to you is that he doesn't like your new ways."

Try to go with a crowd that doesn't drink or smoke and see that won't bring him back. Even if it doesn't you will have the satisfaction of knowing you are right, and maybe that feeling will make you a little less down hearted. It usually has that effect."

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

All reducing programs, especially those that have to do with dieting, should include some special care for the face, to prevent the withered, haggard look that so often follows an unwise strenuous diet.

Several European doctors who are doing the most successful work in reducing cures, recommend these facial exercises to me. They claim that the muscles of the face and throat can be kept firm and tight, contours remain clear and rounded (prevented from sagging) when these exercises, combined with rich nourishing creams, are used in connection with scientific diets.

The exercises should be done when the body is relaxed or resting, not when fatigued, and cream should always be spread over the skin first, to lubricate the tissues and prevent any tendency toward stretching. A good anti-wrinkle cream or a youthifying tissue cream will help to firm the tissues and to keep the skin supple. The first exercise is for rounding hollow cheeks, preventing the sagging line that comes from nose to mouth, and helping to remove crowfeet and lines beneath eyes. Raise the eyebrows as high as you can and open the mouth wide, dropping the lower lip. Now keeping the eyebrows raised try to bring the lips together, the same time resisting the pull with the upper jaw. Let the chin be very gradual and the effort to resist it very strong. Do this several times. The lips are slowly coming together. Relax and repeat six or eight times.

This one is for lines on the neck and for building up a scrawny neck. Bring your head over as far as you can toward one shoulder, with your face full front, bringing it slowly back to center, assisting firmly with the opposite hand placed against your head. Do the same toward the other side. Repeat several times. Bend the head backward, push your chin forward until the under-chin muscles are tense. Do the head forward until the chin rests on the chest. Repeat going back and forward about times each.

PORT WILLIAM WINS FROM BOWERSVILLE ON THURSDAY NIGHT

The Bowersville Leopards went down to their first defeat of the season by a margin of 26 to 25 in a basketball game with Port William on the latter's floor Thursday night.

The contest was nip and tuck all the way with first one team and then the other setting the pace. Port William jumped into a seven-point lead before the Leopards realized what was happening, but Bowersville rallied and tallied nine points in a row, leading 13 to 9 when the first quarter closed.

Both teams began to play cautiously with the result the half found Bowersville still leading, 19 to 15. Port William managed to tie up matters when the third period ended and in the last quarter the home quintet emerged victorious by the smallest margin. Lineups:

WILBERFORCE WILL PLAY HUBBARD TEAM

DeHart Hubbard's "Lion Tamers," a fast colored professional basketball quintet of Cincinnati, will play the crack Wilberforce University team Friday night at Beacom gymnasium at Wilberforce.

The Cincinnati five is sponsored by DeHart Hubbard, Olympic broad jump champion.

In a preliminary game starting at 8:30 o'clock Xenia East High School basketballers will meet Wilberforce Academy in a return game, having defeated this team by a one-point margin last week.

BRENNAN IS CHIEF OF TOLEDO DRY UNIT

Immediately after dismissal of Chief William A. Appleman and three of his aides, William F. Brennan, Dayton, at one time mayor of Xenia, was detailed Thursday as acting chief of the Toledo prohibition enforcement district.

Mr. Brennan has been associated with the government for several years and has served in Cleveland and other Ohio cities in the federal prohibition unit.

Chief Appleman, whom he succeeds and three dry agents were dropped from the government service because of their failure to qualify under the new civil service regulations.

ARREST OF YOUTHS CLEARS UP MINOR ROBBERIES SAY POLICE

Numerous minor robberies extending over a period of the last few months are said to have been confessed by two youths taken into custody by police Thursday.

Charged with receiving stolen goods, Clyde Hughes, 19, was fined $100 and costs and given a thirty-day sentence in the County Jail by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Friday, while Louis Hunter, 17, was transferred to Juvenile Court.

Hunter will probably be removed to Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield as a parole violator as he has been under a suspended sentence to the state institution since last April 29.

He was arrested by police a few days ago in connection with the theft of a pair of high top boots from an auto belonging to F. E. Wilson, but succeeded in proving his innocence and was released from custody. However, Neil Jetty, 17, accused of assisting Charles Randall, 18, in stealing the boots, and Donald Wright, 15, charged with receiving stolen goods in the same case, were each committed to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster this week by Juvenile Judge S. C. Wright on delinquency charges.

CONFIRMS NEW THEATER REPORT HERE; HIBBERT TO KEEP BIJOU

A report that he will erect a movie theater seating nearly 1,000 persons at a cost of $125,000 on the site of the two-story brick building at 42-46 W. Main St., for which he closed a deal with John A. North Thursday, was confirmed Friday by James T. Hibbert, proprietor of the Bijou motion picture theater.

The theater owner announced that operation of the Bijou Theater will be continued, giving Xenia three movie houses. The new playhouse will have a spacious stage, which will be available for home talent productions, legitimate shows or style shows and the seats will all be on the ground floor. There will be no balcony.

The building purchased Thursday by Mr. Hibbert will be razed.

Originally it was the property of Samuel Crumbaugh, grandfather of Mrs. E. M. Smith, W. Market St., who also owned other buildings to the east which have been replaced by more modern structures, Samuel Crumbaugh, Jr., father of Mrs. Smith, purchased the building from the estate of his father and the property was inherited by his children, who sold it a number of years ago.

The ground floor, divided into three store rooms, is occupied by the John A. North plumbing establishment and the Charles Kafory barber shop. The third room has been vacant since a fire which burned out the interior of the R. M. Neeld funeral parlors.

Hibbert will be given possession of the property March 1.

MOTHER OF PRIEST CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary Kelly, mother of the Rev. Francis Kelly, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic Church in Yellow Springs, passed away Thursday morning at 6:30 o'clock at her residence, 1223 W. Riverview Ave., in Dayton, where she had lived for about fifty years.

Mrs. Kelly was born in Ireland and came to the United States when she was six months old. Her husband, John Kelly, died in Dayton two years ago. She was a devoted church worker.

Surviving besides her son, the Rev. Francis Kelly, are three daughters, Elizabeth, Anna and Amy Kelly.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning at the residence and at 10 o'clock at St. Agnes Church. Interment will be made in Calvary Cemetery.

"AUNT LUCIA" GOES OVER SECOND TIME

It is perhaps a tribute to the popularity of a movie success of several years ago entitled "Charley's Aunt," and starring Sidney Chaplin, that the comedy "Aunt Lucia" presented for the second and last time by local talent in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium at Xenia Central High School, Thursday night, is presumably a take-off of that show.

If so, it was a good imitation and from all outward appearances the performance was enjoyed to as great an extent Thursday night as on the previous night and the audience was also as large. It's home talent shows like that that make local audiences like home talent shows like that.

PRELIMINARIES TO PRECEDE TROY TILT

Two preliminaries will precede Xenia Central's second Miami Valley League tilt of the season with Troy High's basketball team at the local gymnasium Friday night.

Central High Juniors will meet Bowersville Juniors in the opening game of the evening's entertainment while Trojan reserves and Xenia Central reserves will oppose each other in the second encounter as a prelude to the Xenia-Troy contest.

Saturday night the Bucks visit Springfield and will be called upon to face one of the strongest Springfield High teams developed in recent years. The game will be played at the school gymnasium.

The Wildcats defeated Hamilton last week and provided plenty of opposition for Dayton Stivers and Steele.

Springfield's starting lineup will probably include Bob Hamilton and Earl Doughman, two heavy scorers, Wade Michael, Dusty Rhodes and Buddy Cox.

STATE PRESIDENT WILL VISIT EAGLES

Gerald C. Nau, Elyria, O., state president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will be honor guest at a meeting of Xenia Aerie No. 1689, F. O. E., at the Aerila Hall Friday night. A reception committee of three members has been appointed to greet the state president upon his arrival and the entertainment committee, having arranged a special program, urges a full attendance. Following the meeting President Nau will confer with Aerie officers and chairmen of committees.

FIRM CAPITALIZED

Incorporations on file at Columbus Friday included The Osborn Furniture Co., capitalized at $25,000. The incorporators of the new firm are Dale Hopp, R. B. Kellier and H. K. Buckley.

PLAN CANDLELIGHT
CONSECRATION FOR
LUTHERAN LEAGUE

Eight persons representing the Lutheran League Federation of Springfield will hold a Candlelight Consecration Service at the First Lutheran Church here Sunday. The service will be held in the church proper and will begin at 6:15 p. m.

Miss Mazie Swearingen, Springfield, president of the southern conference of Ohio Lutheran Leagues, will be chairman of the meeting and will officially represent the Lutheran young people's organization, with a huge candle symbolizing truth.

Others from Springfield assisting Miss Swearingen will be: Elizabeth Standley, Third Lutheran League, devotional; Robert Remsburg, Fourth Lutheran League, social; Virginia Duncan, Fifth Lutheran League, missionary; Edwin Collins, Grace Ridgewood League, music; Lillian Burks, Rockaway League, gospel team; Stange Scott, St. Paul's League, membership; and Edward Driscoll, St. Paul's League, leadership. Each of these persons will take a part in making this one of the most effective meetings of its kind ever held in the local Lutheran Church.

Arrangements for this special service were pending for some time owing to the popular demand that these Springfield people have had in presenting the Candlelight Consecration service. They recently completed a tour of the Springfield Leagues.

All those who are now members of the Lutheran League of the First Lutheran Church and those who desire to join are invited to participate in the ceremony. There is no restriction or age limit according to the constitution of the local league.

Other members of the Springfield Federation are expected and were invited to be in attendance. Only those mentioned above will take an active part in the service. Appropriate lighting and music by the organist, Mrs. C. F. Mellace, will add to the effectiveness of the program.

JUBILEE SINGERS
ON BEAVER GRANGE
LYCEUM PROGRAM

A southern stage setting and appropriate costumes are used to advantage in the plantation scene with which Robert Jackson's Jubilee Quartet is to open its program on the Beaver Grange Lyceum course, Wednesday evening, January 22. The second part of the program is devoted to Negro spirituals, Southern songs and plantation melodies. Many humorous diversions are introduced.

It is doubtful if any company on the platform has a greater wealth of program material than the Plantation Singers. They immediately convince an audience that they are dignified artists who thoroughly enjoy every phase of their work. Their apparently limitless repertoire includes many of the old favorites such as "Roll Jordan, Roll" and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." During their plantation scene the quartet will offer such lively airs as "Get on Board," "I Want to be Ready," "Down in Mobile," "Going to Fly Away to Heaven," "Southern Jack," "Dancing in the Moonlight" and "Come, Come Along."

Their program includes Plantation shouts such as "Hand Me Down the Silver Trumpet," "You Must Have True Religion," "Oh, Yes, It's So High" and "In My Heart."

ETHER CONCERTS

Noted Chicago Orchestra Director Pays High Tribute To Radio Of Today

DIRECTS HIS ORCHESTRA WITHOUT A SCORE.

HE CONSIDERS HIS REAL MISSION IN LIFE IS TO GIVE THE PEOPLE VIA THE RADIO, BEAUTIFUL MUSIC.

FREDERICK STOCK

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of sketches of the most prominent radio artists of the day. Others follow.)

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Central Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—"I am happier every day as I realize what good music means to the people who must depend upon the radio for their concerts. Ah, could I have had all this when I was young and a student! Do they realize—the boys and girls—that they are being given?"

Frederick Stock speaking. A small, gray haired man, close on the border of being elderly—with the youngest, dark, enthusiastic eyes—and a serious smile.

Directs Without Music
He had just finished directing a Russian symphony—a great, long one—with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, without a score. On a platform above his men, he sat in a chair, an empty music rack below.

At a beautiful passage in the music he would lean over in his chair, put one hand over his eyes, and direct with the other. He would do this while the orchestra played softly, and seemed to be thrilled with the melody. Stock loves music. It moves him always.

He was born in Juelich, Germany, November 11, 1875, and first went to Cologne. Later he received degrees from the University of Michigan, the University of Chicago and Cornell and Northwestern universities.

The famous director came to Chicago first as a viola player, in 1895. In 1905, after the death of Dr. Theodore Thomas, he became a director, and followed in the latter's steps. In 1925 France made him a chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Stock considers that he has a real mission in life now. It is to give the people whose concerts come to them via the radio beautiful music that is as inspirational as the best concert that can be attended personally.

He talks of the progress of good music—and of how it is bound to improve the taste of the radio fan for good and lovely things. And—as for the opportunity it gives the young who desire to become musicians—there is no limit to what they can learn, he points out. With the turn of a dial they may hear the greatest opera stars and the greatest orchestra of the world, he says.

Frederick Stock, in a few words—with his enthusiasm and love for music—can make you see the millions sitting in their homes with eyes closed as he likes to close his eyes when he listens—drinking in the beauty of a golden melody.

Sometimes he pushes back his hair slowly while he directs, and a far-away look comes into his face.

FIRST U. P. CHURCH
PLANS DECORATION

Having recently placed a new roof upon the church structure and installed a new furnace, the matter of re-decorating the interior of the auditorium and Bible School sections is being seriously contemplated by trustees of the First United Presbyterian Church.

A questionnaire presented to the congregation brought a favorable vote instructing the officers to take up the matter. A member of the firm of Charles Bryant and Son, designers and fresco artists, of Columbus has been invited to present the color designs and estimates of decorators at a meeting of the board of trustees called for Friday evening. This action was taken at a meeting of the boards of the church Tuesday. If possible it is hoped to have the work done before Easter.

ORDER WATCHMAN AT
SHREVE CROSSING

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 17.—The Pennsylvania Railroad today had been ordered by the state public utilities commission to place twenty-four-hour-a-day watchman service at the Market Street crossing at Shreve, where seven school children lost their lives in a bus accident January 3. The service is to be put into effect immediately.

The order further stated that standard electric flashing signals were to be placed at Market Street, and several other crossings in the city.

The signals must be installed within ninety days, the order provides, and watchman service is to remain in effect for thirty days after the installation, to educate the public in their use.

Recipient of Hoover's
Famous Mud Pie Letter

Dr. W. O. Thompson, president emeritus of Ohio State University, whose New Year's felicitations addressed to President Hoover brought an extraordinary reply from the Chief Executive in which the latter urged his friend not to be disheartened by agitators and falsehoods seeking to bring about the failure of the President and his Administration. The Chief Executive spoke with humorous irony of his political opponents "whose daily toil it was to mix mud pies" and remarked that "the sons of evil have at least collateral descendants in every generation."

FOR THE LOVE OF PAT

By C. L. WEBB © 1929

READ THIS FIRST:

Lieutenant Rex Dallard and Dr. Frank Gordon, both in love with Patricia Blair, follow her to Paris with Nurse Margery Lynne, from the field hospital at G., on receiving news of her kidnapping in Paris. Patricia, joint heir with her twin brother, Jimmy, to a huge estate, has partially identified a wounded aviator, suffering from amnesia, as the brother, but Dallard and Gordon believe another youth, also an aviator, to be the real Jimmy. This latter youth is spirited away from the hospital. Then Herbert Maxwell arrives from New York, announcing himself as the twins' legal guardian, and also his intention of taking the partially identified youth to New York. He departs, and the friends of Patricia set out to discover the secret of her kidnapping.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI
On the fifteenth day of the month Margery received a letter the reading of which changed entirely the plans of the trio. This letter was exceedingly vague and the product, seemingly, of an illiterate person. But it told enough to start Margery's heart to thumping with a glorious hope.

In accordance with the writer's instructions she told neither Dallard nor Dr. Gordon of her intentions. But she was too wise not to make some provision for a rescue in the event of the letter being the bait to a trap. This consisted of inclosing a copy of the letter she had received in an envelope with an explanatory letter and leaving the latter with a trusted friend to hand to Lieutenant Dallard at six o'clock that evening if she had not returned to the hospital by that time.

But the fates were kind to Margery that day. Five o'clock found her back all brimming over with excitement and wonderful news.

"In accordance with the instructions in the letter," said Margery relating the story of her experience to the eagerly awaiting soldier and doctor, "I was to engage a taxi at 2 p. m. and proceed at once to No. 66 in the Rue de la Verde, a short residential street, as I found, in the western suburbs of the city. Here, so the letter stated, a concierge would meet me at the gate of an iron lattice fence. Well, the concierge was there, and so was this important person!" concluded Margery suddenly with a gesture as she pushed aside a screen, "Stand forth, Pat Blair!" she cried—and Pat Blair stood forth.

"Regarding my kidnapping experience," said Pat, a whimsical smile twisting a corner of her sweetly curved mouth as she began the recital she knew her audience of three awaited with eager interest, "there's no doubt but what I have my inordinate curiosity to thank for it!"

"I noticed the handsome limousine standing close by the curb," she continued, "as Dr. Gordon and I would be set at liberty today. I came out of the place, the safe where we had supper. The door was wide open and a most attractive woman of, perhaps, thirty, dressed in a beautiful evening gown, was leaning out. She was looking directly at me and as I caught her glance she smiled. At that moment the Doctor stepped to the curb's edge, as he will recall, to beckon a passing taxi."

"The woman," went on Patricia, "was still looking at me and smiling. She seemed also to be saying something to me. Being a total stranger, as she was, I should not, of course, have given any heed to her."

"But—" Again the little whimsical smile played for an instant around the pretty lips—"the fact remains that I did, I seemed momentarily charmed, literally drawn by the lure of the woman's eyes into stepping within reach of her long arm. And it was a strong arm, too, as I very shortly learned. The woman's hand seemed to flash out, grip my right arm and jerk me toward her. I was thrown off my balance for an instant. Then, before I could recover myself I was pulled violently forward and into the car's dark interior. I don't remember whether I screamed or not; perhaps I did for co-incidence with the action, another hand, that of a man, was clamped over my mouth and the car was speeding away. I was hurled into a corner and held there by main force!"

"It was an experience," continued the helpless-in-wait for a moment, taking up again the story of her adventure, "that bristled with thrills, and at the same time was distinctly alarming. And yet, as I recalled the affair afterward, I didn't seem to be actually frightened. Perhaps the training I've had in the last six months of war work has hardened me. I was more angry than scared, I think, because of the trick played on me and the force used. "Then there was the mystery of the thing. What did they want of me? The actual reason back of the affair was too ridiculous for me ever to have guessed and it was not until the next day that I learned who and what I was supposed to be. Could you ever imagine me in the character of a female spy—a she—spy in the employ of Germany?"

Both Dallard and the Doctor she quick, furtive glances of surprise inquiry at their comrade, Margery. Had she not acquainted Patricia Blair with the story of the supposed plot to steal the Blair fortune—of the real purpose back of her kidnapping, their suspicion etc.?

Margery, with a woman's quick instinct, caught the import of the questioning glances and shook her head in warning. Let Pat finish the story, she signalled them. The girl went on, totally unaware of the little wig-wagging controversy that had taken place just out of her range of vision.

"A spy—just fancy!" she was saying, her brown eyes glowing. "An insignificant little me—accrued with being one of those frightfully brainy women of the secret service! And the German Secret Service, of all countries!"

"Denial got me nothing. My captors—the handsome woman and the man, Leon Leclerc, who, it developed, was her husband, both of whom acted as my jailers, treated me kindly and respectfully. But they refused absolutely either to release me or allow me to send of any letters. They had instructions from their department head, the declared, to keep me a cloistered over until further notice, or order it was utterly useless for me to protest or plead innocence of the spy charge."

"The place in which I was held continued the girl, a reminiscence smile on her lips at the picture he telling her of her experience. "I was well arranged for the purpose to which it was being put. It included a sitting room with barred windows looking out on a sea of roof tops. There was a cozy bedroom and an excellent bath, besides a cute little kitchenette, the latter well provisioned. Madame Leclerc remained with me for an hour or two every afternoon and aside from the fact that she was my jailer, found her entertaining and congenial. I rather liked her and her husband, Leon, whom she very plainly adored, despite the circum-

"Of course," added Pat, a little hurriedly as though to forestall any incorrect impression her words might create, "the confinement was so horribly irksome after the open-air life I've always led. But made the best of it and just waited. I was confident that sooner or later it would be discovered that a mistake had been made—that I was not a spy! And sure enough!"

"Last night Monsieur Leon told me I would be set at liberty today. But they were clever. This morning I was taken in a closed limousine and after driving through miles of streets we stopped before the house at which Margery found me. It would be impossible for me to locate the place where I was held. And yet, taken all in all, was not such a disagreeable experience as one might imagine. But the idea of me being looked upon as a German spy! I'll never get over that! Wasn't it rich?"

Exceedingly rich, concurred the interested listeners. Too rich, in fact, in its lurid coloring, to be true. So rich it was cloying. Wherefore it was conceded by the trio that upon Lieutenant Rex Dallard must devolve the duty of "putting one Patricia Blair 'wise' to several very important truths. That her credulity had not been strained to any marked extent by the whole big story of the German spy seemed a safe assumption. It was fairly evident that she had "lived lowered" everything—hook, line, sinker and all.

Rex Dallard earnestly hoped the Patricia Blair would be able to make use of her fine sense of humor in "laughing off" that German spy joke.

But, down in his heart Rex was afraid, deplorably afraid. If he should develop that he was, a man, well, mistake in his estimate of this girl! If she failed to "prove up" to the standard—?

But Patricia Blair gave such an accounting of herself, of the attitudes desirable in a woman, "proved up" beyond the standard he had set, and did it with such celerity of thought and quick adaptation to the occasion that Rex fairly marvelled. It was clear to him now, quite clear to him who he had fallen in love with the adorable girl, on sight.

John McCormack, the warbler, will finish his initial tie within a few weeks, thereby completing his one-picture contract with Fox and retire until March to his 153-acre estate near Hollywood.

In March he will go to Rome where he will serve as official interpreter for the American representatives attending the Easter conference, a position he got because he speaks fluent Italian.

Colin Clive is speeding back to London where he will resume his stellar role in "Journey's End", after making a film version of this play in record breaking time in Hollywood.

He worked all day, doing retakes and dashed to the train directly from the Tiffany Studio. He spent three hours in Chicago and a mere twenty-five in New York. On his trip west he was in New York exactly twenty-five minutes.

Clive could have remained in Hollywood at an eye-raising salary. Famous Players and M.G.M. made him offers but he had promised the London management of the show that he would return as soon as one picture was completed. He kept his word.

An automobile show, the first event of its kind ever held in Xenia, will occur three days this week at the garage of the Central Electric Supply Co.

The new county children's home will be erected on the twenty-acre tract on which the present building is situated. The Cedarville Light and Power Co., which has contracted to furnish municipal lighting for Cedarville and Yellow Springs, has been incorporated at capital increase from $10,000 to $20,000.

remain until October. He has received a flattering offer to make a picture for a British concern but he has intimated he prefers to make other picture in Hollywood.

During the filming of McCormack's picture, a number of chickens were used in his support to create barnyard atmosphere and chickenish noises. The chickens are engaged by the week, at fifty cents each.

During that time they took time from their film duties to lay their daily eggs. The owner of the chickens claimed the eggs and a claimed back. No compromise has been effected but Fox still has the eggs.

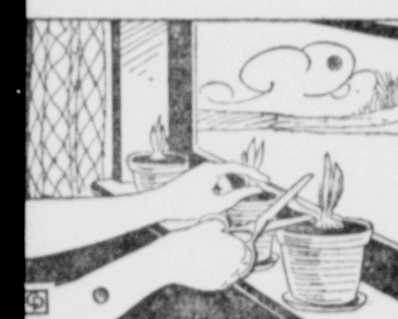

Appropos of his picture, McCormack has recorded fourteen songs. He reproduced a song in the talkies that has not been especially written for the picture, it is necessary to purchase the world rights from the publisher.

The world rights have been purchased for every song except those in French, German and Italian. From the fourteen, eight will be selected for the picture and their names will not be announced until the film is ready for release.

Speaking of world rights to songs, it is learned that a group of Americans trekked to Europe some time ago and brought up sole rights to 10,000 songs for distribution in various countries.

Should a picture company desire to use one of these in a film, must settle with this group. The time and expenditure thus involved is tremendous, and for this reason a music department of studios is considered economically important. It makes the composer

"I suffered eighteen years from rheumatism, and then Konjola made me well, even after scores of medicines and treatments I tried did not the slightest good. I spent hundreds of dollars for all sorts of treatments. For weeks at a time I was unable to work. My joints were swollen to twice their natural size. I had to crawl up and down stairs. And then I tried Konjola. In exactly four weeks I was able to return to work, and I am enjoying life like any other healthy man. This is what Konjola did for me. This is why I think Konjola is the greatest medicine in the world."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 22 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. ANNUAL REPORT OF FIRE CHIEF SHOWS REDUCTION IN FIRES

Marking a substantial reduction both in the number of alarms answered and the aggregate property damage caused from the 1928 figure when a new all-time record was established, Xenia city's fire toll during 1929 included property damage to buildings and contents amounting to $21,426.45, according to the annual report prepared by Fire Chief William Hanftan.

During 1929 firemen responded to seventy-five alarms, a decrease of fifty-seven in comparison with the preceding year when 132 alarms were turned in. In 1928 the fire loss aggregated $154,608.

Chief Hanftan points out in his report that in 1929 the damage to buildings amounted to $3,239 and the loss on contents totalled $18,187.25. However, the building loss was entirely covered by insurance amounting to $70,000 while the contents loss was partly covered by insurance aggregating $12,650.

The seventy-five fires in 1929 were attributed to twenty different causes, the most common being sparks from a chimney flue or a defective flue. The report also asserts that 99.23 per cent of the fires were due to carelessness and with the exercise of ordinary precautions could have been prevented.

October produced the greatest number of fires when ten alarms were turned in and May the least number when one small blaze caused no damage, but the most destructive fires occurred in November, eight fires damaging buildings to the extent of $1,810 and resulting in a contents loss of $16,610, during this month.

A survey of the fire toll in Xenia in recent years shows that in 1923 eighty fires caused property loss of $8,085; 1924—seventy-four fires and a loss of $11,475; 1925—110 fires and a loss of $97,451.40; 1926—seventy-four fires and a loss of $3,618; 1927—100 fires and a loss of $21,801; 1928—132 fires and a loss of $154,608.

Following is a survey of the fires each month in 1929 and the total property loss each month:

A SIMPLE STEP TOWARDS HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a Daily Essential and Millions Know Its Effectiveness in Relief of Constipation

Perhaps the one simple thing you are not doing to guarantee permanent health is having sufficient roughage in your food. Absence of this roughage is the direct cause of constipation which results in so many other ills—headaches, listlessness, general depression, indigestion and, sometimes, serious disease.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is roughage. It is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded. Two table-spoons daily (in serious cases, with each meal) is the proper amount.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also helps you to health in other ways. It is rich in iron, practically all of which goes into the blood, bringing red, healthy color to the complexion. It helps prevent anemia. Be sure to include it in reducing diets.

Many eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with cream or milk added. It is a delicious addition to cereals, fruits and soups. In cooked foods, such as bran muffins, it is just as effective in the relief of constipation. Recommended by doctors. Ask your grocer for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
